Search for recipes in YOUR cookbooks. Why search the internet for recipes when the thousands of dollars invested in your cookbooks sits unused on your bookshelf.

Bring the power of search engines to the cookbooks in your own personal library with Cookbookie.

Cookbookie has over 100,000 recipes from the most popular cookbooks in its database so that you can search them as you would the internet.

Cookbookie comes fully equipped with the following features:

Recipe searching: Searching for “+beef pasta –parsley” will bring back all recipes that have beef, optionally pasta and no parsley in the title.

Ask a foodie: Take a picture of unknown foods and ingredients and Cookbookie will use its special network to identify what it is.

Socialize your kitchen: Use Cookbookie to post your favorite recipes to Facebook and Twitter. Just watch that all your friends don't show up at your house asking for meals that have sugar, bacon, chocolate but no broccoli.

Recipe Diary: Keep track of your favorite recipes and keep notes about modifications to each recipe.

Great support: Can't find your favorite book? No problem, Cookbookie will help you out by setting up an email to our team so we can get it in there right away!
